A SURVEY OF THE IROQUOIS LOCAL NAVAL VESSEL REQUIRES REPAIRING AND WORK WILL PROBABLY BE STARTED.

There will be a survey held on the U. S. Iroquois during the visit of the U. S. S. Buffalo in port. The Iroquois has been in these islands for five years and she is in need of a general overhauling. In order to have this work done, a survey is to be called to determine what is necessary. She has to be repainted and her boilers repaired and fixed in various ways. The board or survey will probably consist of officers from the Buffalo.

It is not unlikely that the Buffalo will have some interesting news of the condition in northern sealing waters. The vessel has returned from a cruise to that section of the Pacific and she may have warned poachers to desist from seal taking.

Can Make Strong Case Of Premeditation

POLICE CONFIDENT THAT THEY WILL BE ABLE TO SUPPLY NECESSARY EVIDENCE TO CONVICT DAMON'S MURDERER OF CAPITAL CRIME—WAS CAUGHT STEALING LANTERN BELONGING TO THE FATHER OF THE VICTIM.

The question which is being discussed among attorneys and the public generally regarding the murder of young S. E. Damon by Jose Miranda Tuesday night, is whether the prosecution has evidence to show premeditation on the part of the defendant. High Sheriff Brown is confident on this score and is satisfied that such a case can be made out without much difficulty.

Only eleven days before the murder, Miranda was discharged from the Oahu prison after serving a term for burglary. Miranda on Monday night, entered the room of a Porto Rican woman on Vineyard street and stole her trunk, from which he took $40 in cash. He had been informed that Detective McDuffie was looking for him to place him under arrest for stealing the trunk, and the fellow was armed with the long dirk knife prepared to resist arrest. While returning from the excursion to Moanalua, Miranda stole a lighted lantern from the side of the road, as darkness had set in. This lantern belonged to S. M. Damon the father of S. E. Damon, and had been placed on a wall that was being constructed on the side of the road, near the roadway that turns off to S. E. Damon's place.

When S. E. Damon drove up, he noticed the fellow with the lamp and surmising that it belonged to S. M. Damon, told Miranda to replace it. Damon drove past and ascertaining positively that the lantern was his father's came back and again told the Porto Rican to replace the lamp. Miranda swore at Damon and the latter got out of the buggy and, going to Miranda caught hold of him by the shoulder, telling him to replace the lamp. Miranda tried to break the lamp by throwing it on the ground but the lamp was not extinguished. The Porto Rican then stabbed Mr. Damon the fatal blow in the stomach with the dirk, and without stopping to recover the stolen lamp, hastened away after warning E. Sullivan to keep off.

Miranda certainly shows the utmost indifference to his position. When he was sent to the Oahu prison on the night of the murder, Miranda went to sleep almost the instant he had been put into the cell. And, what is more, he slept soundly throughout the night. After the arraignment in court yesterday, Miranda relapsed into his former attitude of indifference and showed no particular concern about his fate.

There has been considerable talk about the city regarding the punishment that is likely to be meted out to the murderer. The almost universal sentiment seems to be in favor of hanging the man. But should there be a failure to convict him of premeditated murder in the case, it is thought that it is not improbable that efforts may be made to lynch him. There has however been no further talk of lynching the prisoner, since the officials have acted so promptly in bringing the case before the attention of the courts. The sentiment seems to be to await calmly the result of the trial of the man, on the charges of murder in the first degree.

Miranda is said to have thought when Damon was coming after him, that Damon was an officer about to arrest him for the theft of the light and Miranda determined then to kill him for the purpose of escaping capture. It is not unlikely too that Miranda might have feared arrest for his former theft of the trunk.
